

PLENSA HEAD TO GREET CHICAGO ART LOVERS

ARTNET NEWS

Mar. 11, 2008

A giant-sized steel-mesh sculpture of a head by Catalan artist Jaume Plensa is going to greet visitors to the "Artropolis" mega-fair blowout in Chicago -- more than 180 galleries come to town for Art Chicago, NEXT, the International Antiques Fair, the Intuit Show for Outsider Art and the Artist Project, all taking place at the Merchandise Mart, Apr. 25-28, 2008. Titled Sho and measuring about ten feet tall, the sculpture is most likely to be sited at the entrance to the Merchandise Mart building, courtesy of Richard Gray Gallery of Chicago. The work was previously on view in a survey show of Plensa's work at IVAM in Valencia.
